 - a. award temporary custody or establish temporary parenting time with the minor children of the parties on a basis which gives primary consideration to the safety of the victim and the children.
 - i. In addition to the primary safety considerations, the court may consider best interest factors that are found to be relevant to the temporary custody and parenting time award. Best interest factors include, but are not limited to, the following: (1) a child's physical, emotional, cultural, spiritual, and other needs, and the effect of the proposed arrangements on the child's needs and development; (2) any special medical, mental health, or educational needs that the child may have that may require special parenting arrangements or access to recommended services; (3) the reasonable preference of the child, if the court deems the child to be of sufficient ability, age, and maturity to express an independent, reliable preference; (4) whether dating violence, domestic abuse, or domestic violence has occurred in the parents' or either parent's household or relationship; the nature and context of the dating violence, domestic abuse, or domestic violence; and the implications of the dating violence, domestic abuse, or domestic violence for parenting and for the child's safety, well-being, and developmental needs; (5) any physical, mental, or chemical health issue of a parent that affects the child's safety or developmental needs; (6) the history and nature of each parent's participation in providing care for the child; (7) the willingness and ability of each parent to provide ongoing care for the child; to meet the child's ongoing developmental, emotional, spiritual, and cultural needs; and to maintain consistency and follow through with parenting time; (8) the effect on the child's well-being and development of changes to home, school, and community; (9) the effect of the proposed arrangements on the ongoing relationships between the child and each parent, siblings, and other significant persons in the child's life; (10) the benefit to the child in maximizing parenting time with both parents and the detriment to the child in limiting parenting time with either parent; (11) except in cases in which dating violence, domestic abuse, or domestic violence as described in clause (4) has occurred, the disposition of each parent to support the child's relationship with the other parent and to encourage and permit frequent and continuing contact between the child and the other parent; and (12) the willingness and ability of parents to cooperate in the rearing of their child; to maximize sharing information and minimize exposure of the child to parental conflict; and to utilize methods for resolving disputes regarding any major decision concerning the life of the child.

- ii. If the court finds that the safety of the petitioner or the children will be jeopardized by unsupervised or unrestricted parenting time, the court shall condition or restrict parenting time as to time, place, duration, or supervision, or deny parenting time entirely, as needed to guard the safety of the petitioner and the children. The court's decision on custody and parenting time shall in no way delay the issuance of an order for protection granting other relief provided for in this section.

3. At the hearing, the respondent has the burden of proving by a preponderance of the evidence that there has been a material change in circumstances and that the reasons upon which the court relied in granting or extending the order for protection no longer apply and are unlikely to occur.
4. If the court finds that the respondent has met the burden of proof, the court may vacate or modify the order.
5. If the court finds that the respondent has not met the burden of proof, the court shall deny the request and no request may be made to vacate or modify the order for protection until five (5) years have elapsed from the date of denial.

5. The victim shall be furnished with a copy of the following rights entitled to victims of dating violence, domestic abuse, or domestic violence:
- a. You can ask the county attorney to file a criminal complaint;
 - b. You have the right to file a petition with the court requesting an Order for Protection from dating violence, domestic abuse, or domestic violence. The order could include the following:
 - i. An order restraining the abusing party from further acts of abuse;
 - ii. An order directing the abusing party to leave your household;
 - iii. An order preventing the abusing party from entering your home, school, business, or place of employment; or
 - iv. An order awarding you custody of or visitation with your minor child(ren).
 - c. You have the right to notification if prosecution of the case is declined or criminal charges are dismissed.

§ 3.14 Firearms

- 1. An order granting relief shall prohibit the abusing party from possessing firearms for the length the order is in effect if the order
 - a. restrains the abusing party from harassing, stalking, or threatening the petitioner or restrains the abusing party from engaging in other conduct that would place the petitioner in reasonable fear of bodily injury, and
 - b. includes a finding that the abusing party represents a credible threat to the physical safety of the petitioner or prohibits the abusing party from using, attempting to use, or threatening to use physical force against the petitioner.

- c. The order shall inform the abusing party of that party's prohibited status.
 - d. Except as provided in Section 3.14(3), the court shall order the abusing party to transfer any firearms that the person possesses, within three (3) business days, to a federally licensed firearms dealer, a law enforcement agency, or a third party who may lawfully receive them.
 - i. The transfer may be permanent or temporary. A temporary firearm transfer only entitles the receiving party to possess the firearm. A temporary transfer does not transfer ownership or title.
 - ii. An abusing party may not transfer firearms to a third party who resides with the abusing party.
 - iii. If an abusing party makes a temporary transfer, a federally licensed firearms dealer or law enforcement agency may charge the abusing party a reasonable fee to store the person's firearms and may establish policies for disposal of abandoned firearms, provided such policies require that the person be notified via certified mail prior to disposal of abandoned firearms. For temporary firearms transfers under this section, a law enforcement agency, federally licensed firearms dealer, or third party shall exercise due care to preserve the quality and function of the transferred firearms and shall return the transferred firearms to the person upon request after the expiration of the prohibiting time period, provided the person is not otherwise prohibited from possessing firearms under tribal, state, or federal law. The return of temporarily transferred firearms to an abusing party shall comply with tribal, state, and federal law.
 - iv. If an abusing party permanently transfers the abusing party's firearms to a law enforcement agency, the agency is not required to compensate the abusing party and may charge the abusing party a reasonable processing fee.
2. An abusing party who is ordered to transfer firearms under this section must file proof of transfer as provided for in this section. If the transfer is made to a third party, the third party must sign an affidavit under oath before a notary public either acknowledging that the abusing party permanently transferred the abusing party's firearms to the third party or agreeing to temporarily store the abusing party's firearms until such time as the abusing party is legally permitted to possess firearms. The affidavit shall indicate the serial number, make, and model of all firearms transferred by the abusing party to the third party. The third party shall acknowledge in the affidavit that the third party may be held criminally and civilly responsible under tribal and state law if the abusing party gains access to a transferred firearm while the firearm is in the custody of the third party. If the transfer is to a law enforcement agency or federally licensed firearms dealer, the law enforcement agency or federally licensed firearms dealer shall provide proof of transfer to the abusing party. The proof of transfer must specify whether the firearms were permanently or temporarily transferred and include the name of the abusing party, date of transfer, and the serial number, make, and model of all transferred firearms. The abusing party shall provide the court with a signed and notarized affidavit or proof of transfer as described in this section within two (2) business days of the firearms transfer.

3. When a court issues an order containing a firearms restriction provided for in Section 3.14(1), the court shall determine by a preponderance of evidence if an abusing party poses an imminent risk of causing another person substantial bodily harm.
4. Upon a finding of imminent risk, the court shall order that the local law enforcement agency take immediate possession of all firearms in the abusing party's possession.
5. The local law enforcement agency shall exercise due care to preserve the quality and function of the abusing party's firearms and shall return the firearms to the person upon request after the expiration of the prohibiting time period, provided the person is not otherwise prohibited from possessing firearms under tribal, state, or federal law.
6. The local law enforcement agency shall, upon written notice from the abusing party, transfer the firearms to a federally licensed firearms dealer or a third party who may lawfully receive them. Before a local law enforcement agency transfers a firearm under this section, the agency shall require the third party or federally licensed firearms dealer receiving the firearm to submit an affidavit or proof of transfer that complies with the requirements for affidavits or proofs of transfer established in Section 3.14(2). The agency shall file all affidavits or proofs of transfer received with the court within two (2) business days of the transfer. A federally licensed firearms dealer or third party who accepts a firearm transfer pursuant to this section shall comply with Section 3.14(1) and (2) as if accepting transfer from the abusing party.
7. If the law enforcement agency does not receive written notice from the abusing party within three (3) business days, the agency may charge a reasonable fee to store the abusing party's firearms.

8. A law enforcement agency may establish policies for disposal of abandoned firearms, provided such policies require that the abusing party be notified via certified mail prior to disposal of abandoned firearms.

§ 3.15 Notification of Release of a Perpetrator

1. When an abusing party is scheduled to be released from custody, the White Earth Police Department, DOVE, and State of Minnesota law enforcement shall make reasonable efforts to notify the victim and Victim Advocate prior to, or upon release of, the abusing party from custody.
